UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURTDISTRICT OF NEVADA

JAMES EARL HILL,

Case No. 2:98-cv-00914-KJD-DJA

Petitioner,

ORDER

v.

CALVIN JOHNSON, et al.,

Respondents.

Petitioner James Earl Hill, a Nevada prisoner, has filed a counseled second-amended petition for a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2254. (ECF No. 135.) Currently before the Court is Respondents' motion to dismiss Hill's second-amended petition and Hill's motion for an evidentiary hearing. (ECF Nos. 150, 156.) In their motion to dismiss, Respondents argue that Hill's second-amended petition contains claims that are not cognizable, unexhausted, and/or procedurally barred. (ECF No. 150.) And in his motion for an evidentiary hearing, Hill argues that an evidentiary hearing is required so he can prove his allegations of good cause and prejudice under Martinez, based on the State's suppression of evidence in violation of Brady, and his actual innocence under Schlup. (ECF No. 156.) For the reasons discussed below, the Court grants the motion to dismiss, in part, and denies the motion for an evidentiary hearing.

I. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In its order affirming the denial of Hill's state habeas petition, the Nevada Supreme Court described the crime, as revealed by the evidence at Hill's trial, as follows:

On March 8, 1983, at 11:00 p.m., Hill and [co-defendant Brian Keith] Marshall kicked in the front door to an apartment occupied by [Leroy and Altonia] Matthews. The couple was in bed, and Altonia had already fallen asleep. She was fifty-six years old and confined to a wheelchair due to paralysis on her left side resulting from a stroke.

1 After hearing the crash of the front door, Leroy ran to the bedroom doorway
2 and saw two young men coming into the apartment toward the bedroom. Leroy 3 slammed the bedroom door closed and pushed a dresser against it, attempting to 4 barricade himself and his wife inside. When Leroy discovered that he could not 5 keep the intruders out, he went to the bedroom window, removed a stick used to 6 lock the window shut ("window stick"), and placed the window stick on the bed.
7 He opened the window and put his head outside when he encountered Marshall, 8 who had come around the building to meet Leroy at the window. Marshall was 9 carrying a sawed-off pool cue stick ("cue stick"); however, Leroy mistook it for a 10 gun. Marshall threatened to "blow [Leroy's] head off" if he went out the window.
11 Therefore, Leroy retreated back into his bedroom. Marshall apparently went back 12 inside to assist Hill in pushing the bedroom door open and overpowering Leroy's 13 barricade.

14 Once Hill and Marshall were inside the bedroom, Altonia awoke to the 15 commotion. She asked what was happening, and Hill hit her hard on her forehead 16 with his fist, exclaiming, "Shut up, Bitch!" At this time, Marshall demanded the 17 television, jewelry, and money. Leroy responded that he and his wife did not have 18 any of those items.

19 Marshall then coaxed Leroy out of the bedroom and into the living room.
20 Once Leroy followed Marshall, he realized the item in Marshall's hand was not a 21 gun as he had thought; rather, it was the cue stick. Therefore, Leroy attempted to 22 grab the cue stick from Marshall, and the two struggled and fought over the cue 23 stick until they eventually reached the kitchen, located near the front door. Leroy would not let go of the cue stick, and Marshall hit him with a fist. Leroy then tripped and fell on the floor. Marshall climbed on top of Leroy and started choking him with the cue stick across his neck. Leroy later testified that Marshall never left his presence throughout the entire ordeal. He further testified that he was positive Marshall was the man with whom he struggled, not Hill. This is supported by the fact that Leroy recognized Marshall and Hill from the neighborhood prior to March 8, 1983. Also, at trial, other testimony was presented that Hill and Marshall looked nothing alike and could not easily be mistaken for each other. Hill has a much darker complexion than Marshall and is about five or six inches shorter than Marshall.

24 In the meantime, Hill was left in the bedroom with Altonia. Leroy heard his 25 wife screaming in great pain and yelling, "Why are you doing that to me? Don't do that to me!" Later it was discovered that Hill had beat her up and sexually assaulted her by deeply and repeatedly thrusting a stick, presumably the window stick, inside her anal opening with great force. Eventually, Marshall yelled to Hill to leave the premises. Before leaving, Marshall threatened Leroy that if he told the police, he was as good as dead. Marshall and Hill then left the apartment.

26 Leroy went into the bedroom to discover his wife beaten up and bloody, 27 lying on the floor. He also saw the window stick lying on the bed. Leroy placed the 28 window stick back in the window. Leroy put Altonia in her wheelchair and moved 29 her into the living room where he carried her to the couch. He got cold towels and 30 attempted to attend to her wounds. Leroy then moved Altonia to the floor because 31 she was in such pain; thereafter, she again requested to be placed on the couch.

1 Leroy testified that he did not realize how injured she was until she told him that 2 she thought she was dying. Because the couple did not own a phone, Leroy was 3 forced to leave his injured wife and run several blocks to his sister-in-law's house 4 to call an ambulance. Additionally, because Marshall lived nearby and Leroy feared 5 another confrontation, Leroy had to proceed a few blocks out of his way to get to 6 the phone.

7 [FN1] Inexplicably, there was a four-hour delay between the time 8 Marshall and Hill left the Matthews' apartment at about 11:30 p.m.
9 and the time when the ambulance was called at 3:30 a.m. Leroy 10 testified that he delayed only about fifteen to twenty minutes after 11 the two men left. Given the duress he was under, Leroy likely 12 delayed longer than he thought he had, attempting to comfort his 13 wife. Additionally, running to his sister-in-law's house may have 14 taken more time than he realized.

15 Afterward, the ambulance and the police arrived at the Matthews' residence, and 16 Altonia was transported to the hospital.

17 On March 10, 1983, Altonia died from her injuries. Dr. James Clarke, the 18 medical examiner, performed an autopsy. He later testified at trial that Altonia's 19 external injuries included deep lacerations on her forehead penetrating all the way 20 to the bone. She had severe bruising, including a black eye, and several broken 21 teeth. Altonia additionally suffered from deep cuts to her perineum (the area 22 between her vaginal and anal openings) so severe that there existed only one 23 common opening. Dr. Clarke testified that this injury resulted from a sharp-ended stick, such as the window stick, being thrust inside her with great force at least four or five times.

Dr. Clarke further testified as to Altonia's internal injuries. Before she died, Altonia underwent surgery to repair her abdomen and remove her sigmoid colon (the part of the large intestine that connects the colon with the rectum) because they were perforated by the same object that tore her perineum. There was damage to her kidney and hemorrhaging in the kidney area. Dr. Clarke informed the jury that the object used to assault Altonia was thrust into her at least fourteen inches deep in order to reach the kidney from her anal opening.

Dr. Clarke testified that the cause of Altonia's death was peritonitis (inflammation of the abdominal surfaces) and atelectasis (combination of the injuries and shock causing the lungs to collapse) due to someone thrusting a long sharp object, likely the window stick, into her rectum.

On March 13, 1983, after police investigations led to Marshall and Hill as suspects, Marshall was arrested. He made two voluntary statements to the police, apparently blaming Hill for the sexual assault, while admitting his involvement in the other crimes committed on the Matthews. Later that day, Hill was also arrested, and he, too, made voluntary statements to the police admitting his involvement, but insisting that Marshall committed the sexual assault on Altonia.

(ECF No. 145-38 at 3-7.)

1 A jury found Hill guilty of burglary, attempted robbery with use of a deadly weapon, 2 attempted robbery, battery with use of a deadly weapon, sexual assault with use of a deadly 3 weapon, and first-degree murder with use of a deadly weapon. (ECF No. 143-11.) A three-judge 4 panel imposed a death sentence for the first-degree murder conviction. (ECF No. 143-34.) The 5 state court sentenced Hill as follows for his other convictions: 10 years for burglary; 7.5 years with 6 a consecutive sentence of 7.5 years for attempted robbery with the use of a deadly weapon; 7.5 7 years for attempt robbery; 10 years for battery with use of a deadly weapon; and life with a 8 consecutive life sentence for sexual assault with the use of a deadly weapon. (ECF No. 143-49.)
9 The judgment of conviction was entered on December 21, 1983. (Id.)

10 Hill appealed his judgment of conviction. (ECF No. 143-47.) The Nevada Supreme Court 11 affirmed on September 4, 1986. (ECF No. 144-22.) Remittitur issued on September 23, 1986. (ECF 12 No. 144-23.) The United States Supreme Court denied certiorari. (ECF No. 144-41.)

13 Hill filed a pro se state habeas petition on September 25, 1986. (ECF No. 144-24.) The 14 state court denied the petition. (ECF No. 144-30.) On June 29, 1987, the Nevada Supreme Court 15 dismissed the appeal without prejudice as untimely, ordering the state court to hold an evidentiary 16 hearing and appoint counsel for Hill if Hill elected to refile his petition. (ECF No. 144-53.) Hill 17 filed two more pro se state habeas petitions on March 18, 1987, and July 27, 1987, respectively.
18 (ECF Nos. 144-44, 144-55.) The state court appointed counsel, and counsel filed a supplemental 19 petition and points and authorities. (ECF Nos. 145-2, 145-3, 145-8.) Following an evidentiary 20 hearing, the state court denied Hill post-conviction relief. (ECF Nos. 145-10, 145-15.) Hill 21 appealed, and the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed on February 26, 1998. (ECF No. 145-38.) The 22 Nevada Supreme Court then denied Hill's petitions for rehearing. (ECF Nos. 145-41, 145-44.) The 23

1 United States Supreme Court denied certiorari. (ECF No. 145-47.) Remittitur issued February 19, 2 1999. (ECF No. 145-49.)

3 Hill's pro se federal habeas petition was filed on June 16, 1998. (ECF No. 1 at 1.) This 4 Court appointed counsel to represent Hill. (Id. at 2.) Hill filed his counseled first-amended federal 5 habeas petition on November 1, 1999. (Id. at 5.) Respondents moved to dismiss the first-amended 6 petition on February 10, 2000. (Id. at 6.) On August 27, 2001, this Court granted Respondents' 7 motion to dismiss, in part, regarding the lack of exhaustion but denied the motion without prejudice 8 as to all other grounds. (ECF No. 79.) This Court also stayed the matter to permit Hill to return to 9 state court to exhaust his claims. (Id.)

10 Hill filed his final state habeas petition on September 25, 2001, arguing, in part, that he 11 was "mentally retarded" and that his death sentence must be vacated. (ECF No. 146-1.) The state 12 court found that Hill "presented evidence that he is mentally retarded" and that "the execution of 13 a mentally retarded offender violates the cruel and unusual punishment prohibition of the Eighth 14 Amendment" under Atkins v. Virginia. (ECF No. 146-17.) On October 12, 2002, the state court 15 vacated Hill's death sentencing and left his remaining claims to "be resolved following the 16 disposition of the state's motion to dismiss." (Id.) Fourteen years later, on January 17, 2017, the 17 State moved to place the matter on calendar for purposes of resolving Hill's remaining claims.
18 (ECF No. 146-18.) After supplemental briefs were filed by both parties, the state court dismissed 19 the petition as untimely and successive. (ECF No. 146-27.) Hill appealed, and on October 23, 20 2019, the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed. (ECF No. 146-57.) Remittitur issued November 18, 21 2019. (ECF No. 146-58.) On December 29, 2021, the state court entered an amended judgment of 22 conviction amending Hill's sentence on the first-degree murder conviction to 10 years to life plus 23 a consecutive term of 10 years to life. (ECF No. 146-64.)

On November 10, 2021, this Court lifted the stay and reopened this matter. (ECF No. 129.) Hill filed his second-amended petition on July 11, 2022. (ECF No. 135.) In his second-amended petition, Hill raises the following grounds:

- 1(a). His trial counsel failed to prepare for his guilt phase and investigate his innocence.
- 1(b). His trial counsel unreasonably conceded his guilt for felony murder.
- 1(c). His trial counsel failed to adequately explore his incompetence and cognitive impairments.
- 1(d). His trial counsel failed to investigate, interview, and present witnesses who could have aided in his defense.
- 1(e). His trial counsel failed to fully examine the physical evidence.
2. His trial counsel acted under several conflicts of interest.
3. His appellate counsel was ineffective.
4. The jury were given an improper instruction on guilt or innocence.
5. He was denied an impartial jury due to the State's racially motivated use of peremptory challenges.
6. The trial court erred in failing to allow individualized voir dire.
7. The jury did not include a fair cross-section of the community.
8. The trial court improperly refused to remove biased jurors from the jury panel.
9. The trial court improperly instructed the jury on the elements of first-degree murder.
10. The State improperly failed to disclose Brady evidence.
11. The State engaged in prosecutorial misconduct.
12. He was improperly absent from critical stages of post-conviction proceedings.
13. The Nevada Supreme Court failed to conduct a fair and adequate appellate review.
14. He did not receive fair and adequate appellate review because Nevada's judges are popularly elected.
15. The trial court failed to record bench conferences.
16. His conviction is unconstitutional because of cumulative error.
17. He is actually innocent of first-degree murder.

Additionally, within each ground, Hill argues that his trial and/or appellate counsel were ineffective to the extent they failed to address the substantive issues within each ground.

Respondents moved to dismiss the second-amended petition on September 29, 2022. (ECF No. 150.) Hill responded, and Respondents replied. (ECF Nos. 154, 163.) Hill moved for an evidentiary hearing on January 12, 2023. (ECF No. 156.) Respondents responded, and Hill replied. (ECF Nos. 164, 167.)

1 II. LEGAL STANDARDS

2 A. Cognizable federal claims

3 The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (“AEDPA”) “places limitations on a 4 federal court’s power to grant a state prisoner’s federal habeas petition.” Hurles v. Ryan, 752 F.3d 5 768, 777 (9th Cir. 2014) (citing Cullen v. Pinholster, 563 U.S. 170, 181 (2011)). When 6 conducting habeas review, a federal court is limited to deciding whether a conviction violates the 7 Constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(a); Estelle v. McGuire, 502 8 U.S. 62, 67–68 (1991). Unless an issue of federal constitutional or statutory law is implicated by 9 the facts presented, the claim is not cognizable in federal habeas. McGuire, 502 U.S. at 68.

10 Federal habeas relief is unavailable “for errors of state law.” Lewis v. Jeffers, 497 U.S. 764, 11 780 (1990). A petitioner may not transform a state-law issue into a federal one merely by asserting 12 a violation of due process. Langford v. Day, 110 F.3d 1380, 1381 (9th Cir. 1996). Alleged errors 13 in the interpretation or application of state law do not warrant habeas relief. Hubbart v. Knapp, 14 379 F.3d 773, 779–80 (9th Cir. 2004). A petitioner “cannot, merely by injecting a federal question 15 into an action that asserts it is plainly a state law claim, transform the action into one arising under 16 federal law.” Caterpillar v. Williams, 482 U.S. 386, 399 (1987); accord Poland v. Stewart, 169 17 F.3d 573, 584 (9th Cir. 1999) (holding that federal habeas courts lack jurisdiction “to review state 18 court applications of state procedural rules”).

19 B. Exhaustion

20 A state prisoner first must exhaust state court remedies on a habeas claim before presenting 21 that claim to the federal courts. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b)(1)(A). This exhaustion requirement ensures 22 that the state courts, as a matter of comity, will have the first opportunity to address and correct
23 alleged violations of federal constitutional guarantees. Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 730–

31 (1991). “A petitioner has exhausted his federal claims when he has fully and fairly presented them to the state courts.” Woods v. Sinclair, 764 F.3d 1109, 1129 (9th Cir. 2014) (citing O’Sullivan v. Boerckel, 526 U.S. 838, 844–45 (1999) (“Section 2254(c) requires only that state prisoners give state courts a fair opportunity to act on their claims.”)).

A petitioner must present the substance of his claim to the state courts, and the claim presented to the state courts must be the substantial equivalent of the claim presented to the federal court. Picard v. Connor, 404 U.S. 270, 278 (1971). The state courts have been afforded a sufficient opportunity to hear an issue when the petitioner has presented the state court with the issue’s factual and legal basis. Weaver v. Thompson, 197 F.3d 359, 364 (9th Cir. 1999); see also Scott v. Schriro, 567 F.3d 573, 582–83 (9th Cir. 2009) (“Full and fair presentation additionally requires a petitioner to present the substance of his claim to the state courts, including a reference to a federal constitutional guarantee and a statement of facts that entitle the petitioner to relief.”). A petitioner may reformulate his claims so long as the substance of his argument remains the same. Picard, 404 U.S. at 277–78.

C. Procedural default

Federal courts are barred from considering a state prisoner’s habeas claim if the state courts denied his claim pursuant to an independent and adequate state procedural rule. Edwards v. Carpenter, 529 U.S. 446, 454–55 (2000). “The Ninth Circuit has elaborated that a state rule must be clear, consistently applied, and well-established at the time of the petitioner’s purported default.” Collier v. Bayer, 408 F.3d 1279, 1284 (9th Cir. 2005) (internal quotation marks omitted). “If a state procedural rule is not well-established before a petitioner supposedly breaks the rule, then the rule cannot prevent federal review of the petitioner’s federal claims.” Id.

When a prisoner “procedurally defaults” a federal claim, judicial review is barred unless he can show either: (1) “cause for the default and actual prejudice as a result of the alleged violation of federal law,” or (2) “that failure to consider the claims will result in a fundamental miscarriage of justice.” Coleman, 501 U.S. at 750. To demonstrate cause, a petitioner must show that some external and objective factor impeded his efforts to comply with the state’s procedural rule. Maples v. Thomas, 565 U.S. 266, 280–81 (2012). Ignorance or inadvertence does not constitute cause. Murray v. Carrier, 477 U.S. 478, 486–87 (1986). To show prejudice, a petitioner bears the burden of showing not merely that the error created a possibility of prejudice, but that the error worked to his actual and substantial disadvantage, infecting the entire proceeding with constitutional error. Id. at 494; Bradford v. Davis, 923 F.3d 599, 613 (9th Cir. 2019).

III. DISCUSSION

Respondents argue that grounds 12, 13, and 17 are non-cognizable.¹ (ECF No. 150.) Respondents next argue that grounds 1(a), 1(d), 1(e), 3, 12, 15, and 16 are unexhausted. (ECF No. 150.) Relatedly, Respondents argue that Hill’s inclusion in every ground that his trial and/or appellate counsel erred renders every ground unexhausted. (Id.) Finally, Respondents argue that every ground in Hill’s second-amended petition is procedurally barred because every claim was raised in his appeal of his final state habeas petition which was dismissed by the Nevada Supreme Court under independent and adequate state procedural rules, namely, as untimely, successive, and an abuse of the writ. (Id.)

¹ Respondents also argue that Hill’s inclusion of his post-conviction counsel’s ineffectiveness within his other grounds renders those portions of those other grounds non-cognizable. (ECF No. 150). Hill explains that the allegations of ineffective assistance of post-conviction counsel were raised only as a means of demonstrating cause and prejudice to overcome any procedural default. (Id. at 19–20.) The Court accepts Hill’s explanation that his allegations regarding the ineffective assistance of his post-conviction counsel are not standalone claims, so this Court will not discuss whether these allegations are cognizable.

1 A. Cognizable claims

2 1. Ground 12

3 In ground 12, Hill alleges that he was improperly absent from many proceedings during 4 the post-conviction process. (ECF No. 135 at 84.) Respondents contend that this ground is not 5 cognizable because it alleges errors only in the post-conviction review process. (ECF No. 150 at 6 13.) A federal habeas petition must be directed to the question of whether the petitioner's detention 7 violates federal law, so alleged errors in the manner in which state post-conviction proceedings are 8 conducted are not cognizable on federal habeas review. See, e.g., Franzen v. Brinkman, 877 F.2d 9 26 (9th Cir. 1989) (“[A] petition alleging errors in the state post-conviction review process is not 10 addressable through habeas corpus proceedings.”). While alleged errors in the state post-11 conviction proceedings perhaps may have a bearing on other issues in the case, they do not present 12 independently cognizable claims in federal habeas cases. Ground 12 is dismissed as non-13 cognizable.

14 2. Ground 13

15 In ground 13, Hill alleges that the Nevada Supreme Court failed to conduct a fair and 16 adequate appellate review during his post-conviction appeal because (1) Justice A. William 17 Maupin, who previously represented Leroy, participated in the appeal and (2) the Nevada Supreme 18 Court engaged in improper speculation about the facts. (ECF No. 135 at 88–93.) Respondents 19 argue that this ground is not cognizable because this Court does not review how the Nevada 20 Supreme Court reviewed Hill's claims. (ECF No. 150 at 13 (citing Jammal v. Van de Kamp, 926 21 F.2d 918, 919 (9th Cir. 1991) (“We are not a state supreme court of errors.”)).) While alleged 22 errors in the Nevada Supreme Court's review process may have a bearing on other issues in the 23

1 case, they do not present independently cognizable claims in federal habeas cases. Ground 13 is 2 dismissed as non-cognizable.

3 3. Ground 17

4 In ground 17, Hill alleges that he is actually innocent of first-degree murder. (ECF No. 135 5 at 107.) Respondents argue that neither the United States Supreme Court nor the Ninth Circuit 6 Court of Appeals have determined whether a freestanding claim of actual innocence is cognizable 7 on federal habeas review, so ground 17 should be dismissed as non-cognizable. (ECF No. 150 at 8 13–14.) The Supreme Court has not yet recognized a freestanding “actual innocence” claim as a 9 constitutional claim. See, e.g., McQuiggin v. Perkins, 569 U.S. 383, 392 (2013) (“We have not 10 resolved whether a prisoner may be entitled to habeas relief based on a freestanding claim of actual 11 innocence.”); Herrera v. Collins, 506 U.S. 390, 417 (1993) (assuming, without deciding, that the 12 execution of an innocent defendant would be unconstitutional); Jones v. Taylor, 763 F.3d 1242, 13 1246 (9th Cir. 2014) (“We have not resolved whether a freestanding actual innocence claim is 14 cognizable in a federal habeas corpus proceeding in the non-capital context, although we have 15 assumed that such a claim is viable.”). However, because this is an open question, this Court will 16 not dispose of ground 17 as being non-cognizable.

17 B. Exhaustion

18 1. Grounds 1(a), 1(d), 1(e)

19 In ground 1, Hill alleges that his trial counsel failed to investigate and challenge the State’s 20 guilt-phase case. (ECF No. 135 at 15.) Specifically, in ground 1(a), Hill alleges that his trial 21 counsel failed to prepare for his trial and investigate his innocence, including investigating the 22 following witnesses: Mary Golden, Chester Smith, and Clarence Cross. (Id. at 16–23.) In ground 23 1(d), Hill alleges that his trial counsel failed to investigate, interview, and present at trial the

1 following witnesses who could have aided in his defense: Shirley Baker, Calvin Walker, Tanzie
2 Austin, Cosby Ann Bailey Ford, Virginia Denson, John Henry Bolton, Essie Walker, Sidney 3 Wildridge, Calvin Walker, James Edward Price, and James Ray Taylor. (Id. at 29–34.) And in 4 ground 1(e), Hill alleges that his trial counsel failed to fully examine the physical evidence, namely 5 the inconsistencies between the physical crime scene and the testimony provided by Leroy. (Id. at 6 34.)

7 Regarding ground 1(a), Respondents argue that in his state habeas petition, Hill referenced 8 all three individuals—Golden, Smith, and Cross—but in his state habeas appeal he only referenced 9 Golden. (ECF No. 150 at 7 (citing ECF No. 146-49 at 29–30).) Hill rebuts that ground 1(a) is 10 exhausted because “[t]he relevant declarations and petition, containing allegations and references 11 on specific individuals, was filed with the Nevada Supreme Court as part of the record on appeal.”
12 (ECF No. 154 at 15 (citing Gallegos v. Ryan, 820 F.3d 1013, 1026 n.15 (9th Cir. 2016) (“Gallegos 13 presented these claims in his supplemental petition for post-conviction relief. A copy of that 14 petition was included in an appendix to his petition for review to the Arizona Supreme Court, 15 which is sufficient to present the issue[s] in a full and fair manner to the state courts.” (Internal 16 quotation marks omitted)); Scott v. Schriro, 567 F.3d 573, 582 (9th Cir. 2009) (holding a petition 17 accomplished a “full and fair presentation of his claims” because they were “included [in] a copy 18 of the amended petition for post-conviction relief,” which was attached “in the appendix of his 19 petition for review to the Arizona Supreme Court”); Insyxiengmay v. Morgan, 403 F.3d 657, 668 20 (9th Cir. 2005)).)

21 It is true, as Hill contends, that in his appendix for his state habeas appeal filed with the 22 Nevada Supreme Court on June 8, 2018, he included his state petition for post-conviction relief.
23 (See ECF No. 155-2 at 15.) However, this is insufficient for exhaustion purposes. See Castillo v.

1 McFadden, 399 F.3d 993, 1000 (9th Cir.2005) (exhaustion requires presentation of federal 2 constitutional issues before the highest available state court “within the four corners of his 3 appellate briefing”). Hill’s reliance on Gallegos, Schriro, and Insyxiengmay is unavailing because 4 the exhaustion analysis in these cases was tied to the relevant state procedures governing post-5 conviction review. See Gallegos, 820 F.3d at 1026 n.15; Schriro, 567 F.3d at 582 n.8; 6 Insyxiengmay, 403 F.3d at 668-69. Accordingly, Castillo controls the Court’s analysis here.
7 Because only Golden and Cross were mentioned within the four corners of Hill’s opening brief to 8 the Nevada Supreme Court (see ECF No. 146-49 at 29–30), ground 1(a) is unexhausted to the 9 extent it incorporates Smith.

10 Regarding ground 1(d), Respondents argue that Hill included Ford as a possible mitigating 11 witness in his state habeas petition, but he did not include her in his claim regarding witnesses for 12 the guilt phase of the trial. (ECF No. 150 at 8.) Respondents argue that Hill only mentioned Baker, 13 Vivian Bailey, and Price in his appeal to the Nevada Supreme Court. (Id. (citing ECF No. 146-49 14 at 60–62).) Hill rebuts that the inclusion of Ford does not fundamentally alter the claim presented 15 to the state courts and that the other witnesses—besides Baker, Bailey, and Price—were referenced 16 in his state habeas petition, which, along with the declarations of these witnesses, were included 17 in his appendix to his state habeas appeal to the Nevada Supreme Court. (ECF No. 154 at 15–16 18 (citing ECF No. 146-1 at 33–37).) However, as this Court discussed with ground 1(a), ground 1(d)
19 is only exhausted to the extent it included the witnesses mentioned within the four corners of Hill’s 20 opening brief to the Nevada Supreme Court. Because only Baker and Price were mentioned (see 21 ECF No. 146-49 at 60–61), ground 1(d) is unexhausted to the extent it incorporates witnesses other 22 than Baker and Price.

1 Regarding ground 1(e), Respondents argue that while Hill referenced this claim in his 2 state habeas petition, he did not include it in his appeal to the Nevada Supreme Court. (ECF No.
3 150 at 8.) Hill rebuts again that this claim was included in his state habeas petition, which was 4 included in his appendix to his state habeas appeal to the Nevada Supreme Court. (ECF No. 154 5 at 16.) However, because ground 1(e) was not discussed within the four corners of Hill's opening 6 brief to the Nevada Supreme Court, it is unexhausted.

7 2. Ground 3

8 In ground 3, Hill alleges that his appellate counsel failed to raise the following grounds 9 contained in his second-amended federal petition before the state courts: grounds 2 and 4-16. (ECF 10 No. 135 at 44-45.) Respondents argue that to the extent Hill seeks to incorporate unexhausted 11 claims into ground 3, it is unexhausted. (ECF No. 163 at 6.) However, because the Court does not 12 find that the substantive claims made in grounds 2 or 4-16 are unexhausted, the Court finds that 13 ground 3 is exhausted.

14 3. Ground 12²

15 In ground 12, Hill alleges that he was improperly absent from critical stages of proceedings.
16 (ECF No. 135 at 84.) Respondents argue that in his state habeas petition, Hill only referred to 17 improper absences for post-conviction proceedings and failed to mention hearings related to 18 scheduling his execution or issuance of the supplemental execution order or warrant. (ECF No.
19 150 at 9.) In his post-conviction appeal to the Nevada Supreme Court, Hill alleged his "right to be 20 present during critical stages of the proceedings" was violated. (ECF No. 146-49 at 86.)
21 Specifically, Hill alleges that he was absent from the 1989 post-conviction evidentiary hearing, the 22

23 ²Although ground 12 has already been dismissed as non-cognizable, the Court discusses it here out of an abundance of caution.

1 oral argument on his post-conviction petition, and “other post-conviction hearings.” (Id.) Although 2 Hill did not mention hearings regarding his execution specifically, his “other post-conviction 3 hearings” language appears to incorporate those hearings as well. Ground 12 is exhausted.

4 4. Ground 15

5 In ground 15, Hill alleges that the unrecorded bench conferences violated his constitutional 6 rights. (ECF No. 135 at 99.) Respondents argue that in his state habeas appeal, Hill only referenced 7 unrecorded bench conferences within his cumulative error claim and provided no factual 8 allegations to support this ground. (ECF No. 150 at 9.) Respondents are correct that Hill’s only 9 reference to unrecorded bench conferences is in his cumulative error claim before the Nevada 10 Supreme Court on his state habeas appeal. (See ECF No. 146-49 at 90.) However, because the 11 factual allegations of this claim are contained within the description of the claim itself—12 unrecorded bench conferences—the Court finds that this claim was fairly presented to the state 13 courts. Ground 15 is exhausted.

14 5. Ground 16

15 In ground 16, Hill alleges that his conviction is unconstitutional because of cumulative 16 error. (ECF No. 135 at 103.) Respondents argue that Hill failed to include all the legal and factual 17 allegations contained in his instant cumulative error claim in his state habeas petition. (ECF No.
18 150 at 9.) “Cumulative error must distinctly be raised as an issue at the state level for purposes of 19 exhaustion before seeking federal habeas review.” Pinnell v. Belleque, 638 F. Supp. 2d 1231, 1244 20 (D. Or. 2009) (citing Solis v. Garcia, 219 F.3d 922, 930 (9th Cir. 2000)). Ground 16 is exhausted 21 except to the extent that it incorporates ground 1(e), the portions of grounds 1(a) and 1(d) that this 22 Court has found to be unexhausted supra, and the portions of grounds 4-17 that this Court finds to 23 be unexhausted infra.

1 6. Inclusion of trial and/or appellate counsel error

2 Respondents explain that in every ground of his second-amended petition, Hill includes 3 paragraphs alleging ineffective assistance of his trial counsel (“IATC”) and/or ineffective 4 assistance of his appellate counsel (“IAAC”) that he did not present in support of his state habeas 5 appeal, apart from his appellate claims presented in ground 3. (ECF No. 150 at 9.) Hill rebuts that 6 the addition of IATC and/or IAAC claims within the substantive grounds of his second-amended 7 petition does not render those substantive grounds unexhausted because the IATC and IAAC 8 claims are meant to be separate. (ECF No. 154 at 19.)

9 Hill includes allegations in grounds 4-17 regarding his trial and/or appellate counsel. (See 10 ECF No. 135 at 48 (ground 4), 53–54 (ground 5), 61 (ground 6), 64–65 (ground 7), 69 (ground 8), 11 73 (ground 9), 77–78 (ground 10), 83 (ground 11), 87 (ground 12), 92–93 (ground 13), 98 (ground 12 14), 101–02 (ground 15), 105–06 (ground 16), 112 (ground 17).) In these grounds, regarding his 13 trial counsel, Hill simply states, “[t]o the extent trial counsel failed to raise the proper objections 14 or advance the arguments above, counsel’s performance was deficient. There is a reasonable 15 probability that but for counsel’s deficient performance, the outcome of the proceeding would have 16 been different.” And in these grounds, regarding appellate counsel, Hill simply states, “[t]o the 17 extent that Mr. Hill’s direct appeal counsel failed to present all available pertinent facts and 18 constitutional arguments to the Nevada Supreme Court, counsel was ineffective. There is a 19 reasonable probability of a more favorable outcome on appeal if counsel had properly raised and 20 effectively briefed this issue.” The Court disapproves of the inclusion of these identical generic 21 statements that have been tacked on to grounds 4-17. However, this Court accepts Hill’s 22 explanation that the IATC and IAAC portions of these grounds are meant to be independent claims.

1 As such, the Court finds that grounds 4-17 are unexhausted, in part, to the extent they include these 2 IATC and IAAC claims.

3 7. Anticipatory default

4 Respondents argue that this Court should apply the doctrine of anticipatory default to Hill's 5 unexhausted grounds. (ECF No. 150 at 10.) The Supreme Court has recognized that under certain 6 circumstances it may be appropriate for a federal court to anticipate the state-law procedural bar 7 of an unexhausted claim and to treat such a claim as subject to the procedural default doctrine. "An 8 unexhausted claim will be procedurally defaulted, if state procedural rules would now bar the 9 petitioner from bringing the claim in state court." Dickens v. Ryan, 740 F.3d 1302, 1317 (9th Cir.
10 2014) (citing Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 731 (1991)). In light of the procedural history 11 of this case—namely, the Nevada Supreme Court's October 23, 2019, order dismissing Hill's last 12 state habeas action as procedurally barred and rejecting Hill's arguments for overcoming the 13 procedurally bars, including cause and prejudice and actual innocence arguments—it is plain that 14 Hill's unexhausted claims would be ruled procedurally barred in state court if he were to return to 15 state court to attempt to exhaust those claims. Therefore, the anticipatory default doctrine applies, 16 and the Court considers Hill's unexhausted claims to be technically exhausted, but subject to the 17 procedural default doctrine. See Dickens, 740 F.3d at 1317.

18 C. Procedural default

19 As previously mentioned, the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed the denial, in part, of Hill's 20 state habeas petition, finding that it was untimely filed under Nev. Rev. Stat. 34.726(1), successive 21 under Nev. Rev. Stat. 34.810(1)(b)(2), and an abuse of the writ under Nev. Rev. Stat. 34.810(2).
22 (ECF No. 146-57.) Respondents contend that these bars are adequate and independent. (ECF No.
23 150 at 11.) Hill does not dispute that all his claims are procedurally defaulted. Rather, Hill argues

1 that (1) he can demonstrate cause and prejudice to overcome the procedural default of grounds 1, 2 2, and the IATC claims contained within grounds 4-12 and 14-17 under Martinez v. Ryan, (2) he 3 can overcome the procedural default of grounds 1, 3, 10, 11, and 16 based on the State's Brady 4 violations, and/or (3) he can overcome the procedural default of his entire second-amended petition 5 based on the state court's failure to appoint counsel in his initial post-conviction proceedings and 6 his actual innocence. (ECF No. 154 at 20, 31–36.) The Court will discuss each of these contentions 7 in turn.

8 1. *Martinez

9 “Generally, post-conviction counsel's ineffectiveness does not qualify as cause to excuse 10 a procedural default.” Ramirez v. Ryan, 937 F.3d 1230, 1241 (9th Cir. 2019) (citing Coleman v.
11 Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 754-55 (1991)). However, in Martinez, the Supreme Court created a 12 narrow exception to the general rule that errors of post-conviction counsel cannot provide cause 13 for a procedural default. 566 U.S. at 16-17. “Under Martinez, the procedural default of a substantial 14 claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel is excused, if state law requires that all claims be 15 brought in the initial collateral review proceeding . . . and if in that proceeding there was no 16 counsel or counsel was ineffective.” Id. (citing Martinez, 566 U.S. at 17). But Martinez cannot 17 excuse the procedural default of a substantive claim of trial-court error, appellate-level IAC claims, 18 or “attorney errors in other kinds of proceedings, including appeals from initial-review collateral 19 proceedings, second or successive collateral proceedings, and petitions for discretionary review in 20 a State's appellate courts.” 566 U.S. at 16-7; Davila v. Davis, 137 S. Ct. 2058, 2064 (2017). To 21 establish cause and prejudice to excuse the procedural default of a trial-level IAC claim under 22 Martinez, a petitioner must show that: (1) post-conviction counsel performed deficiently; (2) there 23 was a reasonable probability that, absent the deficient performance, the result of the post-

1 conviction proceedings would have been different, and (3) the underlying ineffective-assistance-2 of-trial-counsel claim is a substantial one, which is to say that the prisoner must demonstrate that 3 the claim has some merit. Ramirez, 937 F.3d at 1242 (internal quotation omitted).

4 Respondents argue that Martinez does not apply in this matter. (ECF No. 163 at 11.)
5 Respondents explain that Martinez only extends to attorney errors during initial-review collateral 6 proceedings, and here Hill was not appointed counsel during his initial-review collateral 7 proceeding, namely regarding his original pro se state habeas petition filed on September 25, 1986.
8 (Id. at 11–12.) And even though Hill was appointed counsel during his subsequent collateral 9 proceeding, which was treated as the equivalent of an initial collateral proceeding by the state 10 courts, Respondents argue that Martinez does not distinguish between claims raised in a first state 11 habeas petition and the equivalent of a first petition. (Id. at 12.)

12 Under Respondents’ logic—i.e., that Hill’s initial-review collateral proceeding 13 encompasses only his pro se state habeas petition filed on September 25, 1986, and not his later 14 quasi-initial-review proceeding in which counsel was appointed—which this Court accepts for 15 purposes of finding cause in this matter, Hill demonstrates cause under Martinez because he had 16 no counsel during his initial-review collateral proceeding. Thus, this Court finds that Hill has 17 arguably met three of the elements under Martinez: (1) he had no counsel during his initial-review 18 collateral proceeding, (2) his state post-conviction petition was the initial proceeding regarding 19 claims of ineffective assistance of trial counsel, and (3) Nevada law requires that a claim of 20 ineffective of assistance of trial counsel be raised in a post-conviction habeas corpus proceeding.
21 (ECF No. 57 at 3.) However, because the analysis of prejudice under Martinez to overcome the 22 procedural default of grounds 1, 2, and the IATC claims contained within grounds 4-12 and 14-17 23 is necessarily intertwined with the merits of grounds 1, 2, and the IATC claims contained within

1 grounds 4-12 and 14-17, the Court defers a determination of the fourth element of Martinez:
2 whether the claims of ineffective assistance of trial counsel are substantial.

3 2. *Brady

4 “Cause and prejudice necessary to overcome the default of a Brady claim parallel the 5 second and third elements of a Brady violation.” Martinez v. Ryan, 926 F.3d 1215, 1227 (9th Cir.
6 2019) (citing Banks v. Dretke, 540 U.S. 668, 691 (2004)); Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 7 (1963). Those elements are “that evidence must have been suppressed by the State, either willfully 8 or inadvertently” and “prejudice must have ensued.” Martinez, 926 F.3d at 1227 (quoting Strickler 9 v. Greene, 527 U.S. 263, 282 (1999)). “Thus, a petitioner establishes cause when the reason for 10 his failure to bring a timely Brady claim is the government’s suppression of the relevant evidence, 11 and establishes prejudice when the suppressed evidence is material for Brady 12 purposes.” Id. “Evidence is material ‘when there is a reasonable probability that, had the evidence 13 been disclosed, the result of the proceeding would have been different.’” Id. (quoting Cone v. Bell, 14 556 U.S. 449, 470 (2009)).

15 Hill alleges that the prosecution withheld material exculpatory evidence relating to his own 16 illiteracy and relating to Leroy’s credibility. Specifically, regarding the former allegation, Hill 17 alleges that the State failed to disclose a Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department Detention 18 Bureau Personal Information form that noted that Hill “cannot read or write.” (ECF No. 154 at 19 32.) And regarding the latter allegation, Hill alleges that the prosecution failed to disclose that 20 Leroy suffered from alcoholism. (Id.)³

22
23 ³Notably, the Nevada Supreme Court rejected Hill’s cause and prejudice arguments under Brady because “Hill concede[d] that he discovered the evidence supporting the alleged Brady violation over one year before he filed the instant petition.” (ECF No. 146-57 at 4.)

1 Because the former evidence, namely evidence of Hill's own illiteracy, was known by Hill 2 at the time of his trial, Hill fails to demonstrate suppression and cause to excuse the procedural 3 default of this first portion of ground 10. And because the latter evidence, namely Leroy's 4 alcoholism, was not material, Hill fails to demonstrate prejudice to excuse the procedural default 5 of this second portion of ground 10. Indeed, regarding materiality, this Court finds that there is not 6 a reasonable probability that, had Leroy's alcoholism been disclosed, that the result of Hill's trial 7 would have been different. It is true that Leroy was a key witness for the prosecution because he 8 testified about which perpetrator committed which acts during the invasion (see ECF No. 142-43 9 at 20–37), so his unreliability would have been favorable evidence for the defense in blaming 10 Marshall. However, because Hill does not allege that Leroy was under the influence of alcohol at 11 the time of the attacks or at the time of trial, the Court finds that Hill fails to demonstrate that 12 Leroy's general suffering from alcoholism affected the reliability of his testimony. Moreover, 13 because Hill admitted to being unlawfully present at the Matthews' home during the attacks, albeit 14 denying he committed the sexual assault on Altonia, Hill was still criminally liable under an aiding 15 and abetting theory of liability and under the felony murder rule even if Leroy's testimony was 16 proven to be not entirely reliable.

17 In sum, Hill fails to demonstrate cause and prejudice under Brady to excuse the procedural 18 default of grounds 1, 3, 10, 11, and 16.

19 3. Lack of appointed counsel

20 Hill argues he can overcome the procedural default of his entire second-amended petition 21 based on the state court's failure to appoint him counsel in 1986 when his original pro se post-22 conviction petition was filed because appointment of counsel was mandatory under Nevada law at 23 that time. (ECF No. 154 at 33.) In 1986, Nev. Rev. Stat. § 177.345(1) provided that "if the petitioner was indigent, he was entitled to counsel, and the court was required to appoint him representation.” Crump v. Warden, Nevada State Prison, 934 P.2d 247, 249 n.2 (Nev. 1997) (emphasis in original) (explaining that “[t]his statute was amended in 1987 to allow for discretionary appointment of counsel if the petitioner was indigent” and repealed in 1993). Although the state court’s apparent failure to comply with Nev. Rev. Stat. § 177.345(1) in 1986 certainly amounts to an external and objective factor under this Court’s cause calculation, this Court finds that this failure did not impede Hill’s efforts to comply with the state’s procedural rules. Indeed, the Nevada Supreme Court specifically held that Hill would be able “to re-file his petition for post-conviction relief in the district court” and instructed the state court to appoint Hill counsel on his renewed petition and hold an evidentiary hearing. (ECF No. 144-53 at 3.) As such, because (1) Hill was able to renew his petition, (2) Hill faced no procedural detriment regarding his renewed petition, and (3) the state court treated his renewed petition as the equivalent of a first state habeas petition, Hill fails to demonstrate cause to overcome the procedural default of his entire second-amended petition based on the state court’s failure to appoint him counsel in 1986.

4. Actual innocence

“[A]ctual innocence, if proved, serves as a gateway through which a petitioner may pass whether the impediment is a procedural bar [or] expiration of the statute of limitations.” McQuiggin v. Perkins, 569 U.S. 383, 386 (2013). In this regard, “actual innocence” means actual factual innocence, not mere legal insufficiency. Sawyer v. Whitley, 505 U.S. 333, 339 (1992). However, “where post-conviction evidence casts doubt on the conviction by undercutting the reliability of the proof of guilt, but not by affirmatively proving innocence, that can be enough to pass through the Schlup gateway to allow consideration of otherwise barred claims.” Lee v. Lampert, 653 F.3d 929, 938 (9th Cir. 2011) (en banc) (internal quotation omitted). Nevertheless,

1 the Supreme Court has emphasized that “tenable actual innocence gateway pleas are rare: ‘[A] 2 petitioner does not meet the threshold requirement unless he persuades the district court that, in 3 light of the new evidence, no juror, acting reasonably, would have voted to find him guilty beyond 4 a reasonable doubt.’” McQuiggin, 569 U.S. at 386 (quoting Schlup v. Delo, 513 U.S. 298, 329 5 (1995)).

6 “To be credible, [an actual innocence] claim requires petitioner to support his allegations 7 of constitutional error with new reliable evidence—whether it be exculpatory scientific evidence, 8 trustworthy eyewitness accounts, or critical physical evidence—that was not presented at trial.”
9 Schlup, 513 U.S. at 324 (emphasis added). To be “new” for purposes of an actual innocence claim, 10 the evidence need only be “newly presented,” i.e., reliable evidence “that was not presented at 11 trial,” as opposed to “newly discovered” and thus previously unavailable. Griffin v. Johnson, 350 12 F.3d 956, 961-63 (9th Cir. 2003). Actual innocence review incorporates “all evidence,” including 13 (1) evidence alleged to have been improperly admitted (but with due regard to its questionable 14 reliability), (2) evidence tenably claimed to have been wrongfully excluded by the trial court, (3) 15 evidence the defense did not present to the jury at trial, or (5) evidence that became available only 16 after the trial. Id. (citing Schlup, 513 U.S. at 327-28).

17 Newly presented evidence may call into question the credibility of trial witnesses, 18 potentially requiring credibility assessments on federal habeas review. See Schlup, 513 U.S. at 19 330; Stewart v. Cate, 757 F.3d 929, 941 (9th Cir. 2014). However, a Schlup claim attempting to 20 discredit prosecution witnesses provides less support for actual innocence than affirmatively 21 presenting new exculpatory evidence. See, e.g., Lee, 653 F.3d at 94345 (holding that a reasonable 22 juror may have rejected an expert’s speculation and, even assuming a police report constituted new 23 evidence, jurors may still have convicted the petitioner given all they heard at trial); Sistrunk v.

1 Armenakis, 292 F.3d 669, 675-76 (9th Cir. 2002) (en banc) (finding that excluded evidence had 2 “some impeachment value” but was “far from conclusive,” and thus did not undermine confidence 3 in the conviction).

4 Hill argues that no reasonable juror would have convicted him in light of the following: (1) 5 new evidence that his intellectual disability prevented him from waiving counsel and rendered his 6 confession unreliable, (2) new evidence that his intellectual disability prevented him from 7 understanding or resisting when Marshall insisted that they rob the victims, (3) new evidence that 8 Leroy knew Marshall better than he let on prior to the attacks and purchased a life insurance policy 9 for Altonia before the murder, and (4) new evidence rendering unreliable Lavone Kelly’s trial 10 testimony that she saw Hill adjusting his pants upon leaving the Matthews’ apartment. (ECF No.
11 154 at 48.)⁴ This Court cannot find that it is more likely than not that no reasonable juror would 12 have convicted Hill in light of this allegedly new evidence.

13 Regarding Hill’s first and second contentions regarding his intellectual disability, Hill 14 provides, at most, evidence that he could have presented in defense of the charges.⁵ He does not 15 provide evidence that he did not commit the crimes or that he was not guilty of the crimes. Indeed, 16 Hill’s arguments in support of his actual innocence lack certainty: Hill states that the new evidence

18 ⁴Notably, the Nevada Supreme Court rejected Hill’s cause and prejudice arguments under Schlup 19 because (1) Hill’s cognitive impairment evidence is not new because it “was known at the time of 20 trial and presented as mitigating evidence during the penalty hearing,” (2) “the evidence of his 21 intellectual disability and new declarations undercutting witness testimony at trial does not make 22 it more likely than not that no reasonable juror would have convicted him, given the other evidence 23 of guilt,” (3) “[t]he evidence that Leroy knew Marshall before the burglary is not new,” (4) “is it not likely that any reasonable juror would have a reasonable doubt about Hill’s culpability as to the charge of felony murder in the first degree based on new evidence that Leroy mistreated Altonia and purchased life insurance,” and (5) “whether Hill was adjusting his pants when he left the Matthews’ apartment . . . is of little import.” (ECF No. 146-57 at 5–6.)

⁵Notably, a diminished capacity defense is not available in Nevada. See Crawford v. State, 121
P.3d 582, 591 (Nev. 2005).

1 “that individuals with [an intellectual disability] are susceptible to giving false confessions . . .
2 increases the likelihood [his] confession was unreliable” and “his [intellectual disability]
3 undermined the State’s argument that he” had the intent to commit a felony. (ECF No. 154 at 49– 4 50 (emphases added).)

5 Turning to Hill’s third contention regarding Leroy, evidence that Leroy knew Marshall 6 better than he let on and evidence that Leroy purchased a life insurance policy on Altonia before 7 the attacks certainly casts doubt on Leroy’s culpability and reliability, but it does not undercut the 8 reliability of the proof of guilt regarding Hill. Regardless of Leroy’s culpability and testimony, 9 given the evidence presented at trial, especially Hill’s confession, Hill fails to demonstrate that no 10 juror would have voted to find him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

11 And finally, regarding Hill’s contention that Kelly’s testimony was unreliable regarding 12 her seeing Hill adjust his pants following the attacks, Hill again fails to demonstrate that no juror 13 would have voted to find him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. Indeed, this piece of Kelly’s 14 testimony lacks sufficient significance.

15 In sum, Hill fails to demonstrate actual innocence to excuse the procedural default of his 16 second-amended petition.

17 D. Consideration of new exhibits

18 Respondents argue that this Court cannot consider new exhibits presented for the first time 19 in support of these federal proceedings. (ECF No. 150 at 11.) Respondents request that this Court 20 strike Hill’s exhibits, except for the ones that were properly included in the state court record, 21 because Hill has not demonstrated that he meets the requirements of Habeas Rule 7 or § 2254(e)(2).
22 (Id. at 13.) Hill responds that all exhibits filed with his second-amended petition were previously 23 filed with the state court and this Court, except exhibits 282, 283, 284, and 285, which are

1 newspaper articles regarding jury selection in Nevada and the Jury Improvement Commission's 2 Report. (ECF No. 154 at 60.) Because this Court did not consider exhibits 282, 283, 284, and 285
3 in its consideration of Respondents' motion to dismiss, it declines to strike any exhibits. This Court 4 will, however, entertain any argument regarding whether an exhibit should be considered during 5 its merits review of Hill's second-amended petition.

6 IV. EVIDENTIARY HEARING

7 In his motion for evidentiary hearing, Hill requests an evidentiary hearing—to the extent 8 that Respondents dispute any of the facts in his opposition to the motion to dismiss—to prove his 9 allegations of good cause and prejudice under Martinez, based on the State's suppression of 10 evidence under Brady, and his actual innocence under Schlup. (ECF No. 156 at 6–7.) Because (1) 11 Respondents largely do not dispute the factual issues in the case and (2) this Court is able to decide 12 Respondents' motion to dismiss on the pleadings, this Court declines to hold an evidentiary hearing 13 at this time.
